East Coast Dockworkers Agree to End Port Strike

Last night, the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) and the U.S. Maritime Alliance (USMX) reached a short-term agreement on wages to end the dockworkers strike that has been impacting U.S. supply chains and international shipments to East Coast ports this week. The new agreement will be valid through Jan. 15, 2025. The ILA and USMX will spend the next three months at the bargaining table trying to hammer out a long-term agreement between dockworkers and the shipping industry.
